To whom it may concern,

I like to drink raw milk and make my own raw cheeses. I have investigated the health and nutrient benefits to a great extent and am convinced of its rewards against those of pasteurized milk products. In a world where you can buy all kinds of things like cigarettes and alcohol not to mention foods that have been processed to an extreme level, why can't we choose to buy unpasteurized milk? If the production methods are sound then where is the problem?

Please free the system up so there is at least choice for the consumer.
