

Seamons, Colleen

From: Monisha McCarthy [eloisesmum150904@yahoo.com.au]
Sent: Tuesday, 2 September 2008 11:21 AM
To: submissions
Subject: raw milk (last email was accidentally sent before I could finish)

Sorry

Hi, as an advocate of all foods natural, I am in full support of clean, organic raw milk.

Pasteurised milk is not the best milk as it is full of dead everything. Pasteurisation kills everything in milk, including the valuable vitamins and enzymes, hardens the calcium, thus making it harder for our bodies to utilise.

Raw milk is milk as intended by GOD and the arrogance of scientists that claim to better what GOD has made is groundless.

If the FSANZ were truly concerned about public health and safety as far as food was concerned, then there are so many other things that should be made illegal. For instance, food additives. My mum last year bought some nestle yoghurt for my daughter. She doesn't read labels as I do. I read the label, was very unhappy to find out what it had contained. I penned an email, was very unhappy with their response, that their additives were approved. So, something so far removed from the real deal is approved, but something as wholesome as raw milk is not? Now why is that.

I don't buy into the belief that raw contains pathogens, simply because raw milk from, clean, healthy cows that have been grass fed and live in a clean, healthy environment is the best form of milk.

So many people who are allergic to cows milk can take raw milk with no problems, so such a vital food, should be made legally available

Then there is GM. That should be the mother of all illegal things as far as food is concerned.

Mrs. Monisha Annabel McCarthy

Win a MacBook Air or iPod touch with Yahoo!7- Find out more.