Hi all

I'm handling this for CASE now. I've made some suggested edits but have not edited the last half as I've not been privy to correspondence. However Peter and I discussed this earlier so have cced him.

I also wonder whether we should add a dot point along the lines that:

Ms Han asked x number of questions, one of which was why the web page had been removed. Given our previous experience with this reporter and her apparent bias we decided to address her questions by providing a statement rather than answering each individual question.

I am drafting a press council complaint and a letter to the editor of the SMH – not for publication but to express our concerns noting I haven't fully discussed this aspect with Mark as yet.

Regards

Lorraine
