Gene 4.29 - Review
Breeding Techni...

The morning session will be used to provide some background on the various techniques and the outcomes of the two technical workshops, as well as outline the regulatory problem, including the issues with interpretation of the definitions in Std 1.5.2.

The after lunch session will be a round table essentially to get the views of the jurisdictions and hopefully some consensus on how the definitions should be interpreted with respect to the techniques for which there is most uncertainty – the gene editing techniques, and those techniques that result in null segregants (i.e. a line that has not inherited any changes introduced using gene technology). Our preferred outcome is that jurisdictions agree with our view on interpretation, although that may not happen of course.
