To whom it may concern,

I am writing in response to the application by Monsanto, A1041, Food Derived from SDA Soybean Line.

Although I acknowledge the need for plant based Omega 3 fatty acids, including SDA, I believe that there is natural levels of SDA in hempseed oil that has not been previously marketed and does not run the risk of unpredictable genetics in an open environment.

Monsanto's products, along with genetic manipulation, has received a lot of scepticism and condemnation around the world. Along with the need to label these products specifically, adding to consumer confusion, other avenues should be given priority and support over these risky additions.

I request that FSANZ rejects this avenue to promote high Omega 3 SDA foods.

Sincerely,

David Mattinson
