Submission Text:	Hello, I submit that we hold off the GM potato. If a potato is likely to bruise then we should be altering the system to produce fresher foods which would be better for health than a genetically altered product. Needing the crutch of technology for food is like needing a wheel chair to cross a road. It is better to not be dependant on crutches and walk freely. Food should be simple and a gift from nature, not something we alter for our own good only. If I can meet up with someone from FSANZ to chat then I would be most

happy - perhaps I could speak with your most pro GM person as I believe there are people with FSANZ that are very encouraging of GM technology. Let us not digest a lab but the beautiful earth instead. Thank you.
